Soil-climate community of practice

- The Soil-climate community of practice, aims to
 - disseminate best practices on land management and soil carbon projects,
 - link research and practitioners,
 - support developing countries and smallholder farm communities.
- The Soil-climate community of practice
 - is a joint effort by all the soil-climate nexus stakeholders
 - we hope to see other organization join this collaboration and take the initiative
- If you want to get actively involved in shaping this CoP. We invite you to a short session on Monday 3.00 pm CET. Please approach Fabian Rackelmann (fabian.rackelmann@giz.de) for an invitation.

Today's Event

- We have produced draft synthesis papers, which represent the status quo on
 - Biochar,
 - soil-carbon monitoring,
 - carbon markets for soil protection
 - and related policy coherence.

You may comment on the synthesis papers here

- After the event

We will collect best practice examples for action on the Climate-Soil nexus, focusing on the perspective of development countries. You can email us (sv-boden@giz.de) if you would like to contribute.
