Summary

Located just 10km from the Mediterranean coastline our farm is a 10,000 sqm permaculture and agricultural demonstration site; nestled in the rustic Andalusian landscape you will find the beginnings of our vision for future 'off grid' zero carbon sustainable agriculture.

Our closest neighbour is the village of Moclinejo, famous for its Ruta de la Pasa (Raisin Route) and its traditional Arabic style low white houses with narrow winding streets. At the heart of the farm is a permaculture and closed loop philosophy; we're passionate about the need to design sustainable and ecological practises into future farming methods; leveraging renewable energy, vermiculture, nutrient recovery, water management and soil regeneration. Green Lab Granja is designed around four key philosophies:

Renewable energy

We are exploiting renewable energy sources to power the entire farm, everything from solar, biogas and hot composting.

Reducing landfill

Working with local communities we are diverting organic waste from restaurants and coffee shops into our vermiculture systems.

Soil regeneration

We are supporting the regeneration of soils on the land we farm through vermiculture and composting reducing soil erosion.

Health and Wellbeing

We believe in the wellbeing of individuals and the role natural systems play in a healthy lifestyle – all our vegetables are grown organically pesticide free.

WALKING FROM MOCLINEJO

It's a short 20 minute walk from Moclinejo to our Green Lab, please remember to take a bottle of water if you decide to walk, as there a few steep hills and on a warm day is can be quite taxing.

TRAVELING VIA CAR

Travel on Autovia A-7 coming from either Almeria or Malaga, take junction 254, follow the north bound MA-3200, through Benagalbon join the MA-3119 through to Moclinejo, sharp left just before Calle el Chorro. You'll need a 4x4 to enter the Granja.

ACCOMODATION

Rincon de la Victoria, Benagalbon or Moclinejo are all beautiful places to stay and ideally located to access La Granja; AirBnB has a great selection of local apartments and houses.
